Prince Pu Lun Disclaims Connection With Reported Enrollment of Americans for Chinese Army.

Persistent rumors that Prince Pu Lun is in this country not only to see the World's Fair, but also to better the condition of the Chinese army, meet with denials from the Prince. His Highness stated yesterday that there was absolutely no foundation in fact for the report from Indianapolis that he had authorized Brigadler General Edmond F. English of Yankton, S. D., to invite Spanish-American War veterans to accept commissions in the new Chinese army.

The dispatch from Indianapolis stated that General English had written Captain william E. English, commander in chief of the Spanish-American War Veterans, to that effect, and that the pay of the officers was to be the same as that of American officers, rank for rank. General English, the dispatch continued, has been appointed American member of the Chinese General Staff, and expects to commission several hundred American officers. The dispatch also said that Traveling Passenger Agent W. T. Holly of the Union Pacific says that his company has furnished bids for the transpertation of the officers.

Mr. Wong Kai Kah, Vica Commissioner from China, who acts as the Prince's Interpreter, after also denying the report, explained that the Chinese army is under supreme district commanders, who employ soldiers of different nationalities to drill their troops.

"So far as General English is concerned, the Prince has never before heard of him," said Mr. Wong, "and we think it unfair to connect hig Highness's name with this report from Louisville."

Prince Pu Lun, who will leave St. Louis Saturday, spent yesterday at the Fair grounde, studying the various exhibits, William E, English, commander in chief

The race-track scene appeals to those in the audience who have never attended a horse race quite as much as to those who often attend the races. "Checkers" will be the bill at the Century again next week.

Kate Claxton, who has not visited St. Louis in several seasons, will return in a revival of "The Two Orphans" at Hav-She will again be seen as Louise. the blind girl. Miss Claxton created the part when the play was originally produced by A. M. Palmer.

"Stain of Guilt" is the current offering. Eva Tanguay is attracting her old following at Forest Park Highlands, not-withstanding the chilly nights. She sings a series of songs in the same spirited way a series of songs in the same sparited why that made her such a favorite with Frank Perley's "Chaperons." Bimm, Bomm, Berr, a trio of musicians, Ada Arnoldson and others round out the bill. Staley and Birbeck and Laura Mil-lard, prima donna soptano, are to be the headliners here next week.

"York State Folks" is to remain an other week at the Grand Opera-house, James Lackaye plays Simon Peter Marrtin, Ray Royce impersonates Miron Cooper, the old organist; Mrs. Sidman appears as Emailne, and the lesser parts are capably interpreted. At the close of the performance Saturday night, there will be a wrestling match between Peter J. Visser, the Boer champion, and John J. Rooney.

Gabriel's Wild West Show will open at Delmar Garden next week. The band consists of forty cowboys and Indians, who have been making their home at the garden for the last two weeks.

Professor Arthur Ingham on next Sunday will inaugurate a series of Sunday organ recitals, to be given at the United Congregation Church, King's Hebrew Congregation Church, King's highway and Morran street.

The recitals will continue during the World's Fair period. Mrs. Elmer E. Frohman, soprano, will be the soloist at the first recital. She will sing "Jerusalem, Thou That Killest the Prophets," "A Maiden's Song," "Song of My Dearest," "Whene'er Thine Eyes I Gaze Upon" and "Springtime."

"Quincy Adams Sawyer," the New England pastoral, has entered upon a World's Fair run at Crawford's Theater. A book souvenir night is announced for May 19, when every lady occupying a reserved seat on the lower floor will be presented

BAGGAGE MAN RESPONSIBLE. Must Pay Damages for Grip Which Was Stolen.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Chillicothe, Mo., May 12.-The question of when a transfer man's liability for baggage intrusted to his care ceases was in-volved in the case of Miss Julia Alexander versus J. S. McNally in the Livingston County Circuit Court to-day. Owing to the fact that the plaintiff is a daughter of J. W. Alexander of Gallatin, Judge of this circuit, the case was heard by Judge John P. Butler of Milan. Miss Alexander had McNally transfer of grip from the Milwaukee to the Wabash depot in Chillicothe. McNally left the grip on the Wabash depot platform without giving the agent any instructions about taking care of it. The next day, when Miss Alexander went to go home, her grip was gone, and it was never recovered. She sued McNally for $7%, the value of the clothes in the stolen grip.

The defense held that her failure to instruct McNally specifically to put the grip in the Wabash haggageman's care released McNally from responsibility after he had delivered the grip on the platform. Judge Butler found for the plaintiff, instructing the jury to give her damages for the full amount, which was done.
